"AN EPIC OF THE WEST."

THE GIRL AT THE HALFWAY HOUSE

A Romance. By E. HOUGH, author of "The Story of the Cowboy." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A dramatic picture of a battle which has been compared to scenes in "The Red Badge of Courage" opens the story. After this "Day of War," there comes "The Day of the Buffalo." The reader follows the course of the hero and his friend, a picturesque old army veteran, to the frontier, then found on the Western plains. The third part of the story is called "The Day of the Cattle," and the fourth part of the story, "The Day of the Plow." While this story is a novel with a love motive, it is, perhaps, most striking as a romance of the picturesque and dramatic days of early Western life. It shows the movement westward, and the free play of primitive forces in the opening of a new country. Nothing has been written on the opening of the West to excel this romance in epic quality, and its historic interest, as well as its freshness, vividness, and absorbing interest, should appeal to every American reader.

A GREAT WAR NOVEL

IN CIRCLING CAMPS

A Romance of the American Civil War. By J. A. ALTSHELER, author of "A Herald of the West," "A Soldier of Manhattan," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"A remarkably strong sequence of romantic action, admirably sustained. This novel alone places the art and skill of the writer beyond question."—Chicago Tribune.

FAMILIAR FISH

Their Habits and Capture. A Practical Book on Fresh-Water Game Fish. By EUGENE McCARTHY. With an introduction by Dr. David Starr Jordan, President of Leland Stanford Junior University, and numerous illustrations. Uniform with "Familiar Trees," "Familiar Flowers," etc., by F. Schuyler Mathews. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"One of the handiest, and most practical, most informing books that we know. The author treats his subject with scientific thoroughness but with a light touch that makes his book easy reading. The book should be the companion of all who go a-fishing."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

REVISED EDITIONS

Appletons' General Guide to the United States and Canada. With numerous maps and illustrations. 16mo, flexible morocco, with tuck, $2.50.

Part I. Separate cloth edition, New England, Middle States, and Canada, 75 cents. Part II. Southern and Western States, 75 cents.

Appletons' Dictionary of New York and Vicinity. An alphabetically arranged index to all places, societies, institutions, amusements, etc. With maps of New York and vicinity, and illustrations. Cloth, 60 cents; paper, 30 cents.

Appletons' Canadian Guide-Book. By CHARLES G. D. ROBERTS. A Guide for Tourists and Sportsmen from Newfoundland to the Pacific. 12mo, flexible cloth, $1.00.

NEW EDITION

THE RED BADGE OF COURAGE

An Episode of the American Civil War. By STEPHEN CRANE, author of "The Little Regiment," "The Third Violet," "Maggie," etc. New edition, with portrait and biographical sketch. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

CONCERNING ISABEL CARNABY

A Novel. By ELLEN THORNEYCROFT FOWLER, author of "The Farringdons," "A Double Thread," etc. With portrait and biographical and critical sketch. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

PINE KNOT

A Story of Kentucky Life. By WILLIAM E. BARTON, author of "A Hero in Homespun." Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The story is full of the atmosphere of the quaint mountain life with its wealth of amusing peculiarities, and it also has a historical value, since it pictures conditions attendant upon the anti-slavery movement and the days of the war. The interest of a treasure search runs through the tale, since the author has adroitly utilized a mountain legend of a lost mine. "Pine Knot" is a romance "racy of the soil" in a true sense, a story fresh, strong, and absorbing in its interest throughout.

NEW TOWN AND COUNTRY NOVELS

Each 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

THE FLOWER OF THE FLOCK

By W. E. NORRIS, author of "Matrimony," etc.

THE JAY-HAWKERS

A Romance of Free Soil and Border Ruffian Days. By ADELA E. ORPEN.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY, Publishers, New York.

2 vols., Crown 8vo, Cloth, $2.00. Vol. I., $1.00; Vol. II., $1.00

The only complete edition issued by special arrangement with the Author in advance of its publication in Poland.

"Presenting scene after scene of exceptional power and beauty."—Saturday Evening Post, Philadelphia.

"It is difficult to conceive of any one who will not pick the book up with eagerness."—Chicago Evening Post.

SEVENTH EDITION

FROM KINGDOM TO COLONY

By MARY DEVEREUX. Illustrated by HENRY SANDHAM. 12mo, $1.50.

"The atmosphere of old New England pervades it, and there has been no prettier delineation of colonial character, nor no more captivating presentation of the romance of the early days."—Philadelphia North American.

"Highly original and dramatic. The free mountain air seems to blow through its pages.' —Philadelphia Press.

A DREAM OF A THRONE

The Story of a Mexican Revolt. By CHARLES F. EMBREE. Illustrated by HENRY SANDHAM. 12mo, $1.50. (Third Edition.)

"A strong dramatic story of revolt against the Mexican Republic, led by a descendant of one of the Aztec kings. . . . A powerful story of war and love, with constantly changing movement, strong color, and striking effects."—Philadelphia North American.

CURRITA, COUNTESS OF ALBORNOZ

A Novel of Madrid Society. By LUIS COLOMA. Translated from the Spanish by ESTELLE HUYCK ATTWELL. 12mo, $1.50.

"Its pages teem with evidences of a close study of men and women. The plot is ingenious and the complications are numerous and absorbing. On the whole this is an uncommonly interesting book."—New York Times.

EMPRESS OCTAVIA

A Romance of the Court of Nero. By WILHELM WALLOTH. Translated by MARY J. SAFFORD. 12mo, $1.50.

"The story is told with a masterly swing evincing a scholarly understanding of early Roman life, the martyrdom of those professing Christianity, and the typical characters of the period. It is both brilliant and strong."—Boston Herald.

NOTES IN SEASON.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in press a new edition of Governor Roosevelt's collection of essays, entitled "American Ideals."

G. W. DILLINGHAM CO. will publish shortly Major Pond's reminiscences of the celebrities he has introduced to the American public.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. expect to have ready early in September "Through the First Antarctic Night," a record of the voyage of the Belgica among newly discovered territory in the region of the South Pole, by Dr. Frederick M. Cook, surgeon of the expedition.

D. APPLETON & CO. will publish shortly "A Private Chivalry," a novel of a Colorado mining camp and Denver life, by Francis Lynde. Among the books in preparation for the fall is Hamlin Garland's latest literary work, "The Eagle's Heart," a story of Western life; also, "Reuben James, a Hero of the Forecastle," a story of the plain American Blue-Jacket, by the Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, whose recent contributions to the history of the American navy in fact and fiction were deservedly well received.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly an American edition of a volume entitled "Things Chinese: being notes on various subjects connected with China," by J. Dyer Ball of the British Civil Service at Hong Kong, that was originally published about six weeks ago in Hong Kong and has already passed through three editions. They have in preparation "The House of Egremont," a historical romance in the time of the Stuarts in England, by Molly Elliot Sewall, which was to have been published a year ago, but was delayed to enable the author to modify it in accordance with a new conception of certain characters; "Peccavi," by A. W. Horner, author of "Dead Men Tell No Tales," etc.; a collection of stories on subjects relating to music, by James G. Huneker, the well-known critic and teacher of music; also Governor Roosevelt's "Life of Oliver Cromwell," which will be issued uniform with his "Rough Riders," published last year.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish at once Sir Walter Besant's new novel, "The Fourth Generation," which, according to the author, is "a romance of modern days, the motif of which is the apparent injustice contained in the visitation of the father's sins upon the children." Other books promised shortly are Cutcliffe Hyne's new novel "The Filibusters," which deals with the participants in an expedition that successfully captures the presidency of a Central American republic; a sequel to "My Japanese Wife," by Clive Holland; also, "The Bacillus of Beauty," in which life in the "smart world" as well as in the studios and "dens" of newspaper "girl bachelors" and art students will be treated with the "sure touch that knowledge gives." They will publish in September Anthony Hope's new novel "Quisanté," which presents many phases of social and political life in England, and especially in London, at the present day; and Gertrude Dix's important novel of socialism, entitled "The Image Breakers." They have in preparation a volume of stories of American lawyers and their clients, to be entitled "The Case and Exceptions," by Frederick Trevor Hill, a member of the New York bar; a new story by A. W. Marchmont, author of "A Dash for a Throne," etc., entitled "In the Name of a Woman," which has to do with the adventures, hair-breadth escapes, etc., of an Englishman in Russia and Bulgaria; a new "Wolfville book," by Alfred Henry Lewis; and a new issue of Robert Barr's "In the Midst of Alarms," in which the author has made certain changes and corrections. Egerton Castle's "novel of contemporary life," entitled "The Secret Orchard," will very likely not make its appearance until next spring.

Biographical sketches of successful men and women of obscure parentage, who attained fame in literature, art, science, or politics through personal effort and individual ambition. These anecdotes, says the author, are gathered from a variety of sources. In some cases they are expressed as originally written, with only such editing as is necessary to make them comprehensive to young readers.

The term "Jay-hawkers" was applied during the Civil War to men who combined pillage and guerilla fighting; the name was originally conferred because of the agility displayed by these free booters when they pounced upon an enemy. The scenes are in Kansas and Missouri. The sacking of Lawrence is one of the most dramatic incidents in a novel which introduces Quantrell, the celebrated guerilla.

Palier, Emile A. Social sinners. N. Y., The Abbey Press, [1900.] c. 4+229 p. D. cl., $1.

Conspicuous in the group of characters who figure in the novel as social sinners, is Barbara Eckert, an American girl of German parentage. Barbara is, when introduced, a fairly pretty country girl, who has a distaste for her home surrounding and a fixed belief that she is possessed of powers which, if properly used, will eventually be the means of transforming her into a great lady. With these views the heroine goes to New York, and meets with a fate similar to many underpaid working girls.

Payne, Dutton. Mistress Penwick. N. Y., R. F. Fenno & Co., 1900. c. '99. 2-399 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Mistress Penwick is supposed to have lived in the reign of Charles II. When introduced she is the ward of Cedric, Earl of Crandlemar. The novel is founded on interesting incidents in the life of Lord Cedric's ward, who was unfortunate enough after she went to live at Crandlemar Castle, to incur the displeasure of Lady Constance Carnot, who plotted against both Mistress Penwick and Lord Cedric. Her counterplotting causes a separation of the lovers, and the imprisonment of the Earl, with other events described.

OBITUARY NOTES.

SELIM SHEFFIELD WHITE, for nearly ten years an active member of the firm of Ginn & Co., Boston, died July 19. Mr. White was well-known to the school-book trade through his connections with the firm of J. H. Butler of Philadelphia, Taintor Brothers of New York, and with the firm with which he was connected at the time of his death. We hope to give a more adequate notice of his career in another issue.

DR JOHN CLARK RIDPATH, the historian, died after a long illness at the Presbyterian Hospital, New York, July 31. Dr. Ridpath was born in Putnam County, Indiana, April 26, 1841. Both of his parents were from Virginia, near Christiansburg, on the summit of the Alleghanies. His mother was a descendant of Samuel Matthews, one of the Colonial Governors of Virginia. He was graduated from Asbury (now De Pauw) University in 1863, taking first honors. After serving as principal of an academy at Thorntown, Ind., and as superintendent of public schools at Lawrenceburg, he was called in 1869 to the chair of English literature at De Pauw. He was transferred later to the chair of history and political philosophy. He became a conspicuous figure in the college world. During his career as professor he displayed his powers as a writer, and distinguished himself by his ability to think clearly, speak fluently, and write elegantly. In 1874 and 1875, while occupying the chair of history, he wrote and published his first book, "Academic History of the United States." It met with a large sale, and he abridged the work into a "Grammar School History," which for over twenty years held its place as a text-book in many schools. In 1876 he published his "Popular History of the United States." Its sale was immense, and it was translated and published in German. In 1879 he published an "Inductive Grammar of the English Language," and in 1880 appeared his "Monograph on Alexander Hamilton." He next wrote the "Life and Work of Garfield," of which 85,000 copies were sold. His "Cyclopædia of Universal History" was published in 1885 in four large octavo volumes. More than 150,000 sets of this history are said to have been sold. In 1885 he resigned his professorship in De Pauw and the vice-presidency of the university in order that he might devote his whole time to authorship. In 1893 he published the "Life and Work of James G. Blaine," and in 1894, his most comprehensive and philosophical work, entitled "Great Races of Mankind," in four volumes. He was engaged for ten years in preparing the material, and another four years in writing this work. In 1898 he published the "Life and Times of Gladstone," and a supplement to the "History of all Nations" for Webster's Dictionary. He was one of the editors of "The People's Cyclopædia," and for a time was editor of The Arena magazine, of Boston. His monographs are numerous. In recent years he had been engaged in the preparation of a complete and elaborate history of the United States.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 4, 1900.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week' issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CHARACTERISTICS OF A SUCCESSFUL COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER.*

IT not unfrequently happens, when a successful commercial traveller's record for sales is discussed by his competitors, that some one will explain that "any man can sell when he has the right stuff to handle." To a limited extent this may be true; but how far it is from being the whole truth every buyer will be ready to admit at once. An indifferent, or rather, let us say, an unqualified travelling salesman, will almost invariably fail to make the utmost out of a good article; while, on the other hand, the right man will make a success out of something that his less competent competitor would look upon as a sort of "forlorn hope."

It is impossible to define clearly what makes one man more successful as a salesman on the road than another, because the qualities of the men who stand out distinct from the mass of their fellows are more easily recognized than described. There is something of the same subtle influence about the successful commercial traveller that surrounds certain speakers who exercise a magnetic control over their hearers from the first to the last word. It is felt at the first grip of the hand of such a man; the customer is drawn to him at once, and his knowledge and judgment are trusted almost implicity. There springs up by degrees between the buyer and the salesman a sort of freemasonry that leads the buyer to feel that he is in safe hands. And so he is; for while sharp in a deal—when it becomes a question of wit against wit—such a salesman as we have in mind would press his opponent to the wall if necessary; in a transaction where mutual trust is an element, he would spurn to take an advantage of an inexperienced buyer.

What this occult something is—whether it is an animal or a spiritual quality; whether it is required or is inherent in the man; or whether it is constitutional, something physical and something mental combined—who can define it! Only this much can be definitely affirmed: the successful salesman is always a personable and an intellectual man. Whatever his stature or his girth, whether gay and sparkling, or inclined to solemnity, he is always impressive. As to manners—he is a gentleman always, and tactful, knowing at a glance when and how to approach his man. Bluff to the bluff; suave where suavity is required; but courteous and dignified with all. And, lastly, he believes in the goods he sells, whether it be books, stationery, or tin ware. It is a pleasure to see such a man handle a sample—it teaches respect for the goods, as his presence inspires confidence. Can "any man sell when he has the right stuff to handle?" We are inclined to doubt it.

TO REMOVE TARIFF ON PAPER.

ACCORDING to a London despatch to the New York Herald, dated July 31, English paper manufacturers who have just returned from the United States say they have received an intimation from President McKinley that the tariff on paper may soon be removed. S. Charles Phillips, editor of the British Paper Journal, said:

"Our complaints about the severe American tariff on paper elicited the information that President McKinley thinks that the paper industry in the United States has now reached a point where protection is no longer necessary and that radical reduction in the duty might soon be expected. American methods of manufacturing paper are little superior to ours, but they have a great advantage over us in the matter of unexcelled water power, abundant supplies of wood pulp and other raw materials close at hand."

FRENCH AND GERMAN ASSOCIATIONS.

In France and Germany there have been continuously, for the past one hundred years and more, associations of publishers and booksellers for the regulation of trade matters. While these associations have not always held closely together, they have shown, generally speaking, greater power of cohesion than similar associations in Great Britain. Such associations as now exist in France and in Germany have proved of inestimable benefit to the business. They unite all the trades that contribute to the publication of a book, and every one, without sacrificing his individuality, feels that he is part of a whole which controls and represents all. "So complete is the organization," we are informed, of the German retail bookselling trade, "that a publisher can rely on having whatever special treatises he may undertake to publish brought directly under the eyes of every scholar in the country who is in the least likely to become a purchaser, and this without any trouble or expense for advertising on his part. Every retail bookseller, even in the smallest German town, is, thanks to the excellence of the German system, in a position to send, and, as a matter of course, does send, his customers copies on approbation of all new books in which they are likely to be interested."

It is true that the associations have not reformed all the abuses, nor have they solved all the vexed questions; but their very existence has provided a means of self-defence, and has had a moral influence upon their members which is not less strongly felt because it cannot be exactly defined. In Germany, for example, where publishers and booksellers are all leagued in one powerful association, as I have said, retribution follows swift and sure upon any offending bookseller who cuts the prices. He is at once reported to the headquarters of the Börsenverein, and until he purges himself of his fault by submitting to the penalty imposed he cannot do business, for not a publisher will supply him with another book. Nor can a publisher himself transgress with impunity, or escape the prescribed penalty, and exclusion from the league, until he is found worthy of re-admission.

While the English-speaking publishers have been somewhat less successful in combining, English authors have set them a worthy example. True, the conditions with which the authors have had to deal are less complicated, and involve fewer interests, than those which the publishers have every day to handle; still, there is little doubt that to the influence of Sir Walter Besant and his colleagues among British authors is due the strength of the Publishers' Association in England, and also the growing importance and influence of the Publishers' Congress in Europe.

You doubtless know of the latest proposal of a committee of the European Publishers' Congress to establish a code of usages to regulate authors' agreements with publishers, and also are familiar with the excellent memorandum of points to be noted in making an agreement with an author, which this committee issued in 1899. Its definition of the use and meaning of the word "edition," its recommendation of methods of classifying books, its suggestions for the protection of forms of books, its discussion of discount questions, and of the question of responsibility for manuscripts, are all points of practical interest, a consideration of which will, no doubt, have ultimately a definite and practical outcome.

BOOK TRADE ASSOCIATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES.

The history of organization in the publishing and bookselling trades in our own country begins with the century now closing. From a work entitled "Book Trade Bibliography in the United States in the 19th Century," by A. Growoll, I learn that the first booksellers' association was formed in 1801, to regulate sales of books by fairs, as in Leipsic, and to prohibit the sales of books at auction. Mr. Mathew Carey, of Philadelphia, was the president of this association.

In 1802 the first combination of the schoolbook publishers of New York and Philadelphia was formed. This had for its object the lessening of the number of imported books, and the printing of American editions of such elementary works as were in general use in schools, academies, and colleges. In this way it was hoped that thousands of dollars might be saved annually to the country, some of which it was supposed no doubt would go into the pockets of the American publishers. The result of this combination was the immediate publication in America of editions of Greek and Latin classics to compete with the London importations. Very soon there were more books printed than could be sold in several years, and the overstock went into the auction rooms, and the sales by auction prevented the sales of the remainder of the editions in the publishers' hands. So the Booksellers' Company, through its president, Mathew Carey, sent out an appeal in 1813, from which I quote the following: "To those who feel a proper degree of interest in the future welfare of their families, this is an all-important consideration and would alone be sufficient to decide the question." In this same appeal he took occasion to say that 8 on the shoemakers' business is actually more than 40% on the booksellers' business. It seems that four thousand copies of "Cæsar's Gallic War" were printed at one time. This was enough to last six years, and it was against this overprinting, and its consequences, that the association protested. I also found in this connection that as late as 1820, the entire book production in this country amounted to only two and a half millions of dollars, of which only 30% were original American books."

This association was based upon the scheme of publishing books in shares, and it is interesting to note that their terms were declared to be 100 copies, ⅓ off, with 12 months' credit; from 25 to 50 copies, ⅓ off, and nine months' credit, etc. This association must have soon died out. We hear next of Mr. Henry C. Carey, a son of Mathew, trying in 1824 to form a publishers' association. Failing in this effort, he started the "trade sale," a phase of American book publishing which it is unnecessary to describe here.

It was not until 1855, or 31 years after, that another publishers' trade association came into existence, and, apparently, the chief, if not the sole, question before it was the regulation of trade sales. In 1857, or two years later, the question of credits to the bookselling trade was discussed, and it was proposed to reduce credits from six months to four. This seems to have occasioned some little trouble and dissension.

In 1857 and '58 the international copyright question began to occupy the attention of the publishers' association. It was the late George Palmer Putnam who first brought up the question, and everyone will remember with what tenacity he stuck to it for the rest of his days, and with what intelligence and persistence his son, George Haven Putnam, has carried on the work till the present time. This American Book Publishers' Association, with the late W. H. Appleton as permanent president, seems to have come to an end about 1861.

THE SIX BEST-SELLING BOOKS IN JUNE.

According to The Bookman the six books which have sold best in the order of demand from June 1 to July 1, are:

1. "To Have and to Hold." Johnston. Houghton, Mifflin & Co.
2. "Unleavened Bread." Grant. Charles Scribner's Sons.
3. "The Heart's Highway." Wilkins. Doubleday, Page & Co.
4. "The Redemption of David Corson." Goss. The Bowen-Merrill Co.
5. "The Bath Comedy." Castle. Frederick A. Stokes Co.
6. "Red Pottage." Cholmondeley. Harper & Brothers.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

Jules Verne, now seventy-three years old, is at work on a new book of travel.

The author of "John Inglesant" declares that it is very improbable that he will write any more books. He is a manufacturer of sulphuric acid, and is now confining his energies to the supervision of his business.

The author of those two delightful books, "Elizabeth and Her German Garden," and "A Solitary Summer," is said to be the Princess tary Summer," is said to be the Princess Henry of Pless, the wife of Henry xv., Prinz von Pless, Graf von Hochberg. The Princess, whose maiden name was Mary Theresa Olivia West, was born in Ruthin Castle, June 28, 1873, is a sister of Lieut. Cornwallis West who has just married Lady Randolph Churchill. The Macmillan Co. have just published a new and very attractively gotten-up edition of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden."

When the manuscript of Ronald Mac Donald's "The Sword of the King" was read, with a view to its publication in book form, the dramatic quality of the story was instantly remarked. Many of the scenes seemed to need but a touch to make them effective before the footlights. The publishers were not surprised, then, to learn, after the book was accepted, that in its original form it was a play, and had already been performed in England for copyright purposes. It is interesting to know that Mr. Mac Donald spent several years in America, not long ago. He is the second son of the poet-preacher-novelist Dr. George Mac Donald; was born in 1860, and received his education at Trinity College, Oxford. For two years he was a schoolmaster in England; also for two years he taught at the Hill School, Pottstown, Pa.; and then, for four or five years, he was head-master of the Ravenscroft School at Asheville, N. C. In 1894 he returned to England, and since then has had two or three years' experience on the stage, and has written several plays, in one of which he toured for a year in the provinces with his collaborator, H. A. Saintsbury. His wife is an actress, a niece of Mrs. Kendal's, and is known on the boards as Miss Constance Robertson.

BUSINESS NOTES.

New York City—The publishing house of P. F. Collier & Son has taken a twenty year lease of a building to be erected by John Jacob Astor on a plot of about thirteen lots running through from Little West Twelfth to West Thirteenth Street, between Washington Street and Ninth Avenue, New York City. Plans for the building, which will be three stories in height, are now in preparation.

New York City.—A meeting of the creditors of Harper & Brothers, will be held at the office of Morton Trust Company, 100 Broadway, on the 3d of October next, at 2 P.M. to settle the accounts of the concern. The Supreme Court July 6 issued an order as follows: (1) All persons indebted to the corporation of Harper & Brothers are ordered by the 14th day of August, 1900, at the office of the receiver, Morton Trust Company, No. 100 Broadway, to render to said receiver an account of all debts and sums of money owing by them respectively, and to pay the same; (2) All persons having in their possession any property or effects of said corporation to deliver the same to said receiver by the day so appointed; (3) All the creditors of such corporation to deliver their respective accounts and demands to said receiver, at the place so appointed, by the 23d day of August; and (4) All persons holding any open or subsisting contract of such corporation to present the same, in writing and in detail, to said receiver, at the said time and place so specified.

Schenectady, N. Y.—Mrs. H. A. Rice has bought the book store formerly owned by Joseph Tullius.

Watertown, N. Y.—Jones & Hallady, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HERBERT SMALL, formerly of Small, Maynard & Co., has returned from Europe with his health completely restored.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. have in press the third and last volume of "Vagabondia," verse written by Bliss Carman and by the late Richard Hovey.

BRADLEE WHIDDEN, Boston, desires the trade to remember that the advance in the price of Denton's "Moths and Butterflies" took effect August 1.

DAVID MCKAY, Philadelphia, has issued a volume of Walt Whitman's verses, containing some matter omitted from editions of recent years and some fresh autobiographic details.

MISS WINIFRED LEE WENDELL, for some years a contributor to and literary worker on The Bookbuyer, Bookman, Harper's Bazar, Detroit Free Press, and other journals has taken charge of the literary and manufacturing department of Cassell & Co.

LEMCKE & BUECHNER, 812 Broadway, New York, have just ready in the Monographs on Artists Series, the volume on Dürer, by H. Knackfuss, translated by Campbell Dodgson. The volume contains 134 illustrations from paintings, woodcuts, engravings, and drawings.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish in the fall a life of Omar Khayyam, by Professor Dennison Ross, of University College, London. There will be added to the volume the Fitzgerald text of the "Rubaiyat," and a commentary on the text by Mrs. Stephen Batson.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT have in preparation a romance by Alexander Stevenson Twombly, author of "Hawaii and its People," entitled "Kelea: the Surf-Rider—a romance of Pagan Hawaii." The book aims to depict the highest point reached by the Hawaiians under Pagan influences.

R. G. BADGER & Co., Boston, will begin this fall the publication of a new series of American verse to be entitled the Lyric Library. New volumes by Clinton Scollard, John Vance Cheney, Madison Cawein, and others will be offered in attractive typographical form, tastefully bound in limp leather.

THE OUR RACE PUBLISHING CO., 673 Chapel Street, New Haven, Conn., have just ready vol. 1 and "Supplement" of Professor Totten's "The Gospel of History — Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, and Collaterals, re-translated, interwoven and harmonized, word by word." Another volume will complete the work.

JOHN MURRAY, London, will publish shortly a work entitled "Dangerous Trades: the Historical, Social, and Legal Aspects of Industrial Occupations as Affecting Public Health," edited by Dr. T. Oliver, M.D., who secured the co-operation of experts on the numerous subjects with which the volume deals.

JOHN LANE will market at once a new volume from the Vale Press— a new edition, in French, of "Les Ballades de François Villon," with frontispiece, border, and initial letters designed by Lucien Pissarro and engraved on wood by Lucien and Esther Pissarro. The edition is 200 copies of which twelve only will be offered for sale in this country.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish at once Thiers' "Expêdition de Bonaparte en Egypte," selected and edited with notes by C. Fabregou, Professor of the French Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York. This text, recommended by the Committee of Twelve of the Modern Language Association, will be found an exceedingly interesting narrative in easy, historical French.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation "A Landmark History of New York City," by Albert Ulmann, who in describing a series of visits to the old landmarks of the city, most of which are now marked by tablets, gives a history of the early settlers and their efforts to build up and develop the town, bringing the narrative up to recent times. The work will be illustrated with reprints of old maps and plates. A bibliography will be included.

THE MACMILLAN CO. have several successful novels upon their list: James Lane Allen's "The Reign of Law"; Robert Herrick's "The Web of Life," presenting an important phase of American professional life; "A Friend of Cæsar," a tale of the fall of the Roman Empire, by William Stearns Davis; "The Banker and the Bear," the story of a corner in lard, by Henry Kitchel Webster; and "As the Light Led," a strong story of Central Missouri, by James Newton Baskett.

J. F. TAYLOR & Co., New York, have in preparation a popular edition of the works of Charles Kingsley, produced from the same plates which were used in their elaborate subscription edition. Each volume will contain three illustrations on Japan paper, mostly portraits, the other pictures being text illustrations by Ziegler. The volumes include "Alton Locke," "Yeast," "Hypatia," "Westward Ho," "Poems," "Two Years Ago," "Hereward the Wake," and "Letters and Memories of His Life," edited by the author's wife.

"A HAPPY point was made by counsel in defending a bookseller at Bow Street the other day in a case where an English translation of 'The Heptameron' was the cause of offence," says a writer in the London Morning Post. "'Do you consider "Tom Jones" an improper book?' the police witness for the prosecution was asked. "'I do,' was his reply. "'Are you aware,' said the defendant's counsel, 'that the novel in question was written by a former chief magistrate of this court?'" The jury acquitted the bookseller.

A. C. MCCLURG & Co. will publish at an early date "Uncanonized, a romance of English Monachism," a story of English monastic life in the 13th century, during the momentous reign of King John, by Margaret H. Potter. They also announce for early publication "The Private Memoirs of Madame Roland," edited by Edward Gilpin Johnson. The work is based upon a translation made from Bosc's original edition of the memoirs, published at London within two years after Madame Roland's death by the guillotine. It will be the first English translation published since the above named, and now very scarce, English edition. The volume will contain a number of full-page illustrations.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY, successors to the miscellaneous publishing business of The Werner Company, at Akron, O., have in preparation the following books for young people: "Mr. Bunny: His Books," a series of bright jingles by Adah L. Sutton, with pictures, in colors, by W. H. Fry; "The First Capture," a story of the Revolutionary War, by Harry Castlemon, with a number of illustrations; "A Close Shave," a description of a journey around the world in seventy days, by the late Colonel Thomas W. Knox; "Marking the Boundary," adventures of two boys who accompanied the expedition to finish laying off the 49th parallel, which forms part of the boundary line between the United States and Canada, by Edward Everett Billings, illustrated by John Henderson Garnsey; "Teddy," the story of a village boy who helped to raise the mortgage on his mother's home, by James Otis; "The Castle of the Carpathians," by Jules Verne; also, "The Romance of a School Boy," by Mary A. Denison, illustrated by John Henderson Garnsey. For older readers they announce "The Madonna and Christ," reproductions of the paintings of Christ and his mother, by the most celebrated artists of early and modern times; "Living Pictures from the Animal Kingdom," with text by Dr. L. Heck, director of the Berlin Zoölogical Gardens; "Indian Club Swinging—one, two, and three Club Juggling," by Frank E. Miller, physical director of Y. M. C. A., Dallas, Tex.; and "Recollections of the Private Life of Napoleon," by Constant, Premier Valet de Chambre, translated by Walter Clarke.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish early in September a volume entitled "War in the Philippines," prepared on the lines of their histories of "The War of the Rebellion," and "The Spanish War." The work will be a folio the size of Harper's Weekly and will contain a comprehensive record of the war in the Philippines, adequately illustrated with cuts in the text, and twenty-six colored plates. The matter has been carefully compiled and edited by Marrion Wilcox. Another timely work will be that entitled "The Crisis in China," a symposium dealing with different phases of the general subject by writers whose long acquaintance with and study of the subject give sufficient guarantee of the authority of their opinions. The following is a list of the essays and their writers: "Causes of Anti-Foreign Feeling in China," by George B. Smyth, President of the Anglo-China College, Foo-Chow; "The Powers and the Partition of China," by the Rev. Dr. Gilbert Reid, President of the International Institute of China, Peking; "The Struggle for Reform in China," by Charles Johnston, formerly of the Bengal Civil Service; "Political Possibilities in China," by John Barrett, ex-United States Minister to Siam; "The Gathering of the Storm," by Robert E. Lewis; "The Far Eastern Crisis," by Archibald R. Colquhoun; "The Great Siberian Railway," by M. Mikhailoff; "China and the Powers," by Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, of the English navy; "Mutual Helpfulness Between China and the United States," by Wu-Ting-Fang, Chinese Minister to the United States; "America's Share in a Partition of China," by Demetrius C. Boulger; "America's Interests in China," by Gen. James H. Wilson, U. S. Army; and "The American Policy in China," by Sir Charles W. Dilke.

HERBERT S. STONE & CO., Chicago, have in preparation an important work by W. H. Wilkins, the author of "The Romance of Isabel, Lady Burton," entitled "The Love of an Uncrowned Queen," being an account of Sophie Dorothea, Consort of George I., and her correspondence with Philip Christopher, Count Königsmarck, now first published from the originals. Literature describes Mr. Wilkins' picture of life at the Hanoverian Court as "graphic and complete," and his story as "romantic, not to say sensational." The work will be in two large volumes and will contain a number of portraits and illustrations. In the department of Biography they also announce "The Life of Edward Fitzgerald," by John Glyde, with an introduction by Edward Clodd, and a portrait. In the department of drama they will publish "Four plays for Puritans," by G. Bernard Shaw, which will contain among others "The Devil's Disciple," "Po' White Trash," and other one-act dramas suitable for professional or amateur performance, by Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland; also, a popular edition of Amy Leslie's reminiscences of "Some players." In the department of Fiction they will publish in September and October the following: "More Fables," by George Ade; "The Conscience of Coralie," by F. Frankfort Moore; "The Engrafted Rose," by Emma Brooke; "The Monk Wins," by Edward H. Cooper; "The Idle Born," a social satire by H. C. Chatfield-Taylor and Reginald De Koven; "Nude Souls," by Benjamin Swift "Graustark, the story of a love behind a throne," by George Barr McCutcheon; "Long Live the King," by Guy Boothby; "A Soul in Bronze," the story of an Indian boy, educated and civilized, and his struggles to help his people, by Constance Goddard Du Bois; "Love Among Artists," by George Bernard Shaw; "Griselda," by Basilking; "The Fortune of a Day," stories of Italian life, by Grace Ellery Channing-Stetson; "The Inn of the Silver Moon," by Herman K. Viele; "Little Lords of Creation," the story of a first boy and his bringing up by his parents, by H. A. Keays, and "A Child of the Sun," a story for young people, by Charles Eugene Banks. They also announce reprints of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "Pilgrim's Progress," and "The Wide, Wide World," each illustrated and attractively bound in cloth.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. MR. ZIMMERMAN announces the publication of

THE REPENTANT MAGDALEN

By MAY ISABEL FISK.

In this clever story the author attacks with original audacity the problem of student and model in the Latin Quarter of Paris. The denouement is startling and unexpected. 18mo, cloth, 50 cents.

Wherever "LOVE LETTERS" has been kept in stock and displayed it has found a steady and increasing sale, both as a love story and a model of amatory correspondence.

The author, MR. HAROLD RICHARD VYNNE, has woven a dreamful little romance from the fabric of tender billets exchanged by a pair of charmingly ingenuous lovers. The lovers meet, grow fond, they separate, quarrel and become reconciled – all in letters. A delightful study for those who appreciate beauty of sentiment in love letters and at the same time stipulate for a certain elegance of diction. Cloth, gilt, 50 cents.

ZIMMERMAN'S, Publishers, 156 Fifth Avenue., New York.

COLUMBUS IN CUBA.

AT the present time, when we are coming into closer relations with Cuba than ever before, few things could possess greater interest for our students of history than the account given by Columbus himself of his discovery and exploration of the historic and beautiful island in 1492. The directors of the Old South Work have rendered a distinct service in printing as one of their Old South Leaflets the passages from the Journal of Columbus in which this account is given. This is No. 102 in the series, in which for the mere cost of printing, 5 cents a copy, our schools and the people are being furnished with so many original historical documents. Three valuable Columbus leaflets have already appeared in the series: The Account of the Discovery of America from the Life of Columbus by his Son, Ferdinand Columbus; Columbus's Letter to Gabriel Sanchez, describing the First Voyage; and Columbus's Memorial to Ferdinand and Isabella, sent from Hayti in 1494. The new leaflet, "Columbus in Cuba," is a welcome addition.
